SET foot inside the Kings Arms and you take a step back in time, for this well-loved pub at Heath is thought to have been an inn since at least the second half of the 18th century.

The pub is a warren of small rooms with low ceilings, stone-flagged floors and old cast iron fireplaces, still lit by gas and linked by narrow corridors.

Anyone looking to enjoy a drink at the Kings Arms will be pleased to know that, in an era when too many pubs have disconnected their hand pumps, it remains committed to traditional cask ales.

THEME NIGHTS throughout each month include: Italian, Spanish, Pie and the famous Brazilian Night by our own Brazilian Chef "Renata".

It's easy to find the King's Arms. Take the A638 Doncaster Road out of Wakefield, turn left on to the A655 at the Heath Common traffic lights and immediately fork left again.
